Paris, July 22.

PRINCE Dolgoroucki the Muſcovite Miniſter being recalled from this Court, the young Prince Kourakin is appointed Ambaſſadour in his Room, and is arrived here. The Cardinal d'Acunha arrived here from Italy ſome Days ago, and has been magnificently entertained by the Court; the Cardinal du Bois came hither from Verſailles on the 16th Inſtant, to make a Viſit to his Eminency, who ſets out from hence To-Day, having received Orders from the Court of Portugal to return with all Expedition to Lisbon. The Palais here is going to be repaired and beautified againſt February next, on the 16th Day of which Month the King's Majority will be declared, for which Purpoſe his Majeſty will then hold a Bench of Juſtice in the Parliament of Paris. The following Extract of the Advices relating to the Plague received by the Court to the 21ſt of July, has been communicated to the foreign Miniſters.

Provence. The Marqueſs de Brancas in his Letter of the 9th of July writes, that the Plague had intirely ceaſed at Bouiſſet and at the Baſtide of Buſtrel, without any Likelihood of a Return; but it ſtill continued in a Baſtide of the Diſtrict of Villars, where all the neceſſary Precautions were uſed for ſtopping its Progreſs. M. le Bret in his of the 8th and 10th of July writes, that ſince the 5th but two had fallen ſick and three died at Marſeilles: On the 8th 68 remained ſick there.

The Principality of Orange and the Comtat. The Marqueſs de Vibraye in his of the 10th of July ſays, he had received Letters from Avignon of the 30th of June, importing that on that Day 20 Perſons were taken ſick. For five Days before, the Infection had been among the Dominicans and Carmelites there; the Prior of the former and the Confeſſour of the latter were dead. Since that time not above ſeven or eight fell ſick a-Day; and two or three died. The Pope had remitted thither Bills of Exchange for 80000 Livres. M. d'Orſay Intendant in Dauphiné in his of the 12th of July, ſays he had an Account from Orange, that the indiſpenſable Communication occaſioned by the Hay Harveſt, had not much increaſed the Mortality. The 22d of June one was taken ill of the Contagion in a Farm-Houſe which till then had been free, and another who was one of the City Guards fell ſick in the Town; they both died the next Day, one having a Tumour the other a Sore. The 27th a Man fell ſick in one of the Farm-Houſes belonging to the Prince of Conty, as did in the Town one of the City-Guards and a Girl, two in the open Country on the 28th, on the 29th four in the Town and another the 30th. M. d'Orſay had an Account from Avignon, that on the 26th two Women who were buying Herbs in the Market, fell into Fits and died ſoon after. A Phyſician named Normandeau, and ſome Monks, were dead there.

Languedoc. M. de Rothe writes the 10th of July, that the General Quarantain was carried on regularly and ſucceſsfully. Nothing new had happened in all the Country which had been infected. On the 10th began the Quarantain of 20 Days for perfuming and airing the Goods ſuſceptible of Contagion which are in the Towns and Communities of the uninfected Parts of the Country. He writes the 13th that one third of the General Quarantain being over without any Accident, he hoped it would end ſo, notwithſtanding the exceſſive Heats they had had for three Weeks, and the inevitable Communication in ſuſpected Places for removing Houſhold Goods and Merchandizes to be purified. He confirms the Recovery of a Woman who had been ill at Mende, and the Currency of the ordinary Diſtempers. M. de Vieuſſens Phyſician at Alais writes the 11th of July, that the Meaſles and Small Pox began to be common there, as alſo Fevers and Diſſenteries, by him judged to be certain Marks of the ceaſing of the Contagion; of which there had not been the leaſt Appearance in 54 Days. M. de Fraiſſe the commanding Officer at Mende, writes the 7th of July, that according to the Opinion of Phyſicians a Woman who was taken ill the 30th of June was out of Danger. They had Fevers and Pleuriſies there, but nothing of the Contagion. The Quarantain and Diſinfection went on very well there likewiſe. M. Gervaſy and Jennin Phyſicians at Mende, ſend the ſame Advices.
